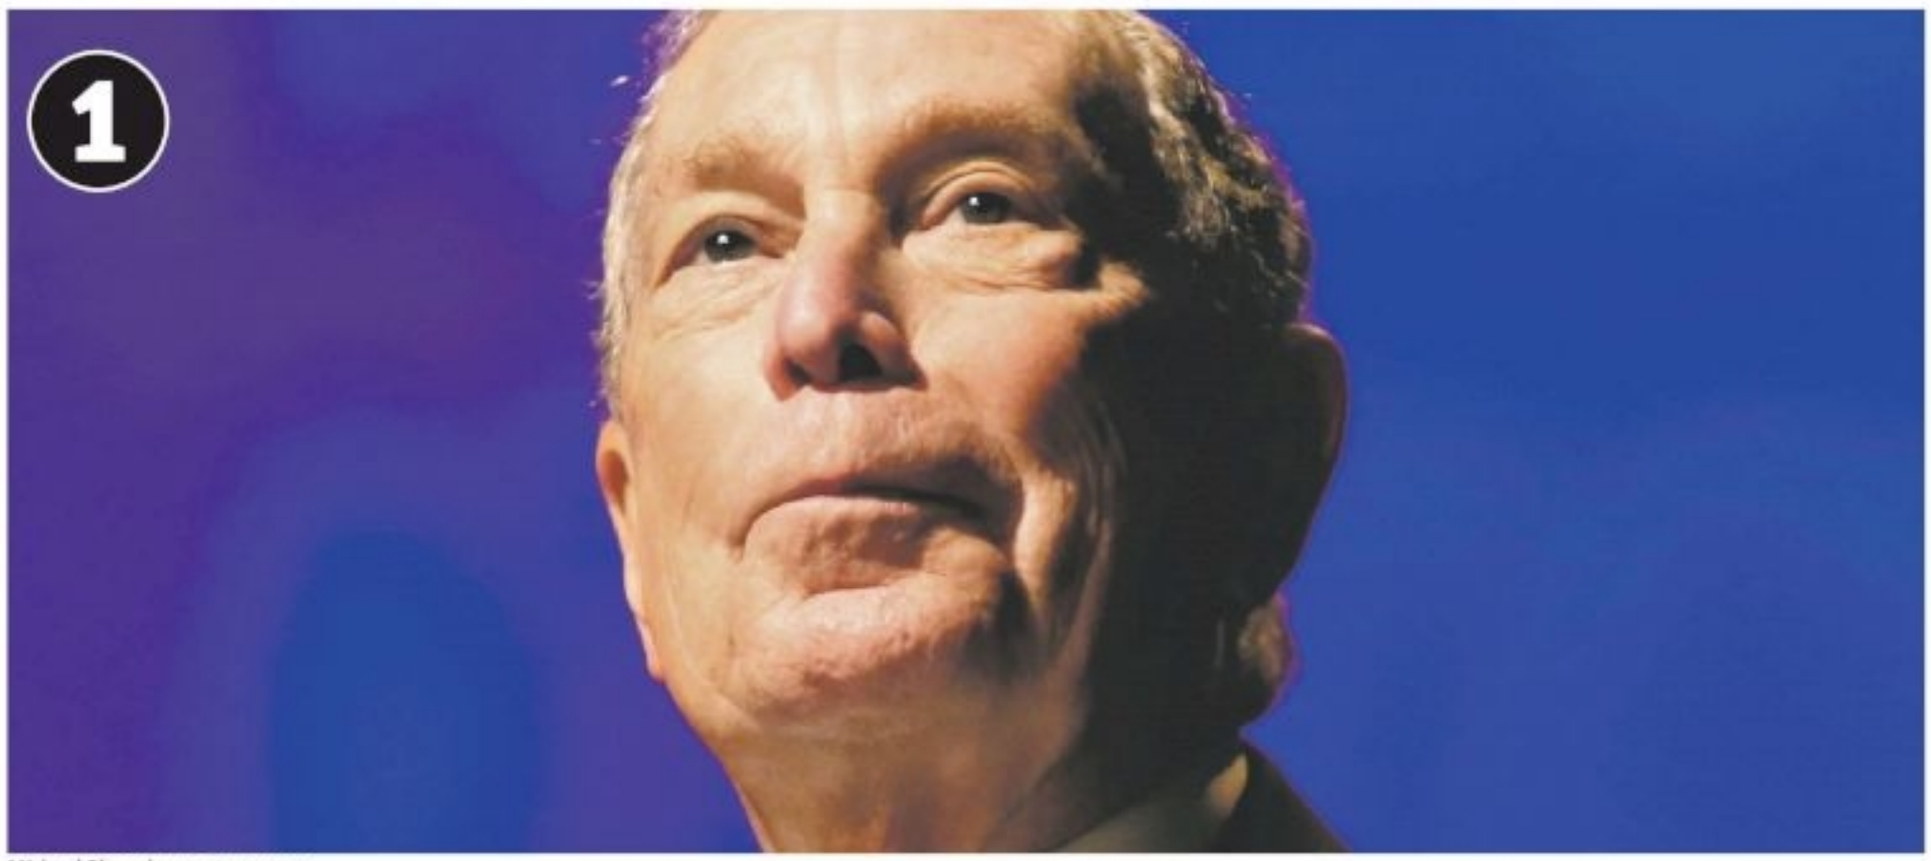
Bloomberg admits he was wrong, apologizes for 'stop and frisk' - NY Times

Reversal issued while considering presidential bid.



Michael Bloomberg. GETTY IMAGES

Former New York Mayor Michael Bloomberg admitted he was wrong to support the "stop and frisk" police practice that ensnared disproportionate numbers of blacks and Latinos, apologizing to a largely African-American church on Sunday as he weighs a presidential bid.

"I was wrong. And I am sorry," Bloomberg told the Christian Cultural Center, the New York Times reported, describing the center as a black megachurch.

His reversal comes as he considers whether to compete for the Democratic nomination for president, a contest in which African-American voters are highly influential.

684K

The practice stopped and frisked more than 684,000 people at its peak in 2011.

Bloomberg, 77, has not formally entered the 2020 race, with the months-long nominating contests starting in February, but he has taken steps to get on the ballot in states with early filing deadlines.

The self-made billionaire who served 12 years as New York mayor had long defended stop and frisk as an effective police tactic that saved lives, even after a federal judge in 2013 found it violated the rights of ethnic minorities.

The practice stopped and frisked more than 684,000 people at its peak in 2011, ostensibly in many cases to search for illegal weapons. But the non-profit Center for Constitutional Rights conducted a study that found blacks and Latinos were nine times more likely than white people to be stopped in 2009. The searches sometimes turned up low-level offenses such as drug possession that otherwise would have gone unnoticed.

Bloomberg told the congregation the policy eroded trust with the public and he aimed to earn back that trust, the Times reported.

"Over time, I've come to understand something that I long struggled to admit to myself: I got something important wrong. I got something important really wrong. I didn't understand back then the full impact that stops were having on the black and Latino communities. I was totally focused on saving lives, but as we know, good intentions aren't good enough," Bloomberg said.

If Bloomberg does enter the race, he will be the fifth most-popular candidate, and his presence may draw more support away from former Vice President Joe Biden than others, a Reuters/Ipsos public opinion poll found.

The Nov. 12-14 national poll found that 3% of Democrats and independents said they would vote for Bloomberg. REUTERS

Protesters regain control of third bridge in Baghdad

2 Iraqi protesters regained control of a third bridge leading to Baghdad's Green Zone on Sunday, taking further ground in the biggest wave of anti-government demonstrations in decades. Security forces used tear gas and stun bombs to prevent protesters from getting right across Ahrar Bridge in central Baghdad, part of a weeks-long attempt to disrupt traffic and reach the Green Zone housing government ministry and embassies. Protesters made a barricade of old cabinets, trash cans and metal sheeting on the bridge while security forces took positions behind blast walls installed to prevent protesters from crossing to the other side. Protesters who choked on the tear gas were evacuated by tuk-tuk, a Reuters cameraman said. On Saturday, Iraqi demonstrators reoccupied part of Sinak Bridge. REUTERS

'Ford v Ferrari' races to first place

3 "Ford v Ferrari" left its box office competitors in the dust as Disney's historical sports drama sped its way to $31 million in North America. Directed by James Mangold and starring Christian Bale and Matt Damon, "Ford v Ferrari" debuted ahead of expectations, thanks to strong word-of-mouth from moviegoers. However, those ticket sales weren't enough to offset disappointing starts from fellow high-profile newcomers, "Charlie's Angels" and "The Good Liar," pushing the domestic box office down over 6% from last year, according to Comscore. Russia says it will return captured naval ships

4 Russia will return three captured naval ships to Ukraine on Monday and is moving them to a handover location agreed with Kiev, Crimea's border guard service was cited as saying by Russian news agencies on Sunday. A Reuters reporter in Crimea earlier on Sunday saw coastguard boats pulling the three vessels through the Kerch Strait toward the Black Sea where they could potentially be handed over to Ukraine. Ukraine has been pushing for their return as a good will gesture from Moscow ahead of a possible four-way peace summit on eastern Ukraine next month. "In accordance with agreements reached with Ukraine three Ukrainian ships are being towed to a location agreed with the Ukrainian side. The handover, will take place on Nov. 18," Crimea's border service said. REUTERS

Speaker of the House Nancy Pelosi (D-CA). REUTERS

In Trump-Nixon impeachment comparison, Pelosi raises specter of resignation

Nixon famously resigned after the Watergate scandal.

U.S. House Speaker Nancy Pelosi is amplifying her unfavorable comparison of President Donald Trump to fellow Republican Richard Nixon, saying that disgraced president at least cared enough about the country to leave office before his impeachment.

The top Democrat in Congress told reporters last week that Trump's pressure on Ukraine to investigate one of his potential opponents in the 2020 election "makes what Nixon did look almost small."

In a CBS interview broadcast on Sunday, she alluded to Nixon's resignation after the Watergate scandal involving a break-in at Democratic Party headquarters and the subsequent cover-up.

"I mean, what the president did was so much worse than even what Richard Nixon did, that at some point Richard Nixon cared about the country enough to recognize that this could not continue," Pelosi said on CBS' "Face the Nation."

Nixon, whose name has become synonymous with scandal and ignominy for many Americans, resigned in 1974 after the House Judiciary Committee approved articles of impeachment against him but before the full House voted on the issue, and he was not impeached.

He is the only U.S. president who has resigned from office.

Pelosi for months resisted calls from her more liberal Democratic lawmakers to initiate impeachment proceedings, but said Trump's call with Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky compelled her to open the inquiry against the president.

Since launching the proceedings on Sept. 24, Pelosi has not been in the room as the House Intelligence Committee held public hearings on Trump's impeachment. However, her voice is loud and clear on the outside, where she drives messaging in a nuanced but sharp manner.

Her Nixon comparison came amid the trial of longtime Trump ally Roger Stone, a self-proclaimed "dirty trickster" who worked for Nixon's re-election campaign and has Nixon's face tattooed on his back. Stone was convicted on Friday of lying to Congress, obstruction and witness tampering during the investigation into Russian interference in the 2016 U.S. election.

Trump and his supporters have attacked the impeachment probe as politically motivated. Trump says his call with Zelensky was "perfect" while Republican lawmakers criticize the impeachment process as unfair.

"Do you have any evidence at all that the president did anything criminal or illegal? And the answer is no," Republican U.S. Representative Chris Stewart said on ABC's "This Week."

The president has "every opportunity to present his case," Pelosi told CBS, including coming before the intelligence panel.

In the CBS interview the House speaker called Trump an "imposter" whose insecurity drove his real-time Twitter attack on former U.S. ambassador to Ukraine Marie Yovanovitch. REUTERS

A progress report for October.

We continue to build a better T. At the center of our plan is a commitment to a reliable, more resilient, faster and safer system. We have finished our accelerated improvements on the Orange Line and are now focusing our resources on the Red Line, following our long-range plan. As work continues and progress is achieved, we will continue to provide monthly updates like this one.

ORANGE LINE

Track replacement, station updates, tunnel work, and improvements.

In October, crews replaced 1,330 feet of track, installed 8,000 feet of fiber-optic cables for signals, and overhauled 45 fare gates. Tunnel leaks were repaired. We cleaned and painted the stations at Chinatown, Downtown Crossing, State Street, and Haymarket.

RED LINE

Replaced track, rebuilt railbed, updated elevators and stations.

In October, we replaced 4,282 feet of rail, 1,280 wooden ties, and rebuilt the track bed with 1,320 tons of ballast. Crews also accelerated the return to service of the Harvard Station elevator, including construction of the elevator head house and mezzanine elevator lobby. Substantial work was also completed at Park Street Station, where we enhanced lighting, replaced stair treads, and painted.

COMMUTER RAIL

Safety improvements.

Crews installed Automatic Train Control (ATC) equipment on the Needham and Franklin Lines, nearly 26.5 miles of track in total. ATC is an upgrade to the existing signal system that will improve safety, traffic management, service, and operating efficiencies. Enhancements include signal system upgrades and new signal houses, as well as wiring, power, and track components. ATC installation on the Needham Line is on schedule to be completed in November; the Franklin Line in January.

BUS

Bus lanes expanded.

In partnership with cities and towns, we wrapped up bus lane projects in Somerville and Arlington to provide a faster and more reliable experience for riders of routes 77, 79, 89, 101, and 350. We also began painting a new bus lane on Brighton Avenue in Boston.

GREEN LINE

Track and signal improvements, intersection upgrades, flood protection, station upgrades.

This October, crews replaced 2,000 feet of track on the B and C Branches and installed over 10 miles of signal cable on the D Branch. We reconstructed four intersections. The 30 intersection upgrades are five months ahead of schedule, with the remaining seven to be completed next month. Also, we laid the structural foundation for flood-preventing doors at the Fenway Portal and installed over 9,300 feet of fiber-optic cable in the area. We updated lighting and painted Park Street Station.

Suspected gunman, 16, in California high school shooting dies in hospital

A teenage boy who killed two classmates and wounded three others at a southern California high school on his birthday before shooting himself in the head died on Friday of his wounds in hospital, the Los Angeles County Sheriff's office said.

"Nathaniel Tennosuke Berhow, 16, a Junior at Saugus High School, was being treated for a self-inflicted gunshot wound to the head, when he succumbed to his injuries. His mother was present at the time of his passing," the sheriff's office said in a written statement.

The boy was carrying out a deliberate plan when he shot five students at his California high school, then turned the gun on himself, a local sheriff said on Friday, but authorities said they had no clues about what sparked the bloodshed.

Two of the other five students who were shot in the Thursday morning attack at the school in Santa Clarita died of their wounds.

"We did not find any manifesto, any diary that spelled it out," Los Angeles County Sheriff Alex Villanueva said at a briefing.

The gunman was publicly identified by law enforcement for the first time on Friday as Nathaniel Tennosuke Berhow.

Berhow initially survived his self-inflicted gunshot wound but died at a local hospital on 3:32 p.m. on Friday, according to the sheriff's department.

Detectives worked through the night to follow up on tips related to the shooting in Santa Clarita, about 40 miles north of Los Angeles. The incident, which was caught on video, unfolded in 16 seconds, police said.

Arriving at school on his 16th birthday, Berhow pulled a .45 semi-automatic pistol from his backpack in an outdoor courtyard, stood in one place and shot his victims in rapid succession before turning the gun and firing the last bullet into his head.

> "We did not find any manifesto, any diary that spelled it out."
> Alex Villanueva, Los Angeles County Sheriff

Villanueva said authorities did not know the origin of the gun used, or how the gunman got his hands on it.

All Hart District schools in Santa Clarita were closed on Friday, the Santa Clarita Valley Sheriff's office said on Twitter, out of respect for the victims and their families.

Two girls aged 14 and 15 were being treated at Providence Holy Cross Medical Center in Mission Hills, California, and were listed in good and fair condition, a hospital spokeswoman said early on Friday.

At the Henry Mayo Hospital in Santa Clarita, authorities said a 14-year-old boy was treated and released. Two other students who had been taken there died. A hospital spokesman could not immediately be reached on Friday.

Villanueva identified one of the students killed as Gracie Anne Muehlberger, 15. He said the families of the other student killed and those wounded did not authorize him to release their names.

The scene at Saugus High School was reminiscent of other mass shootings at U.S. schools, including Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School in Parkland, Florida, where a former student with an assault rifle killed 17 people on Feb. 14, 2018.

It was the 85th incident of gunfire at a school this year, according to Everytown, a gun control advocacy group. REUTERS

Feast on the holiday magic

Madison Iseman talks new holiday film "Feast of the Seven Fishes."

MOLLY GIVEN
Molly.Given@metro.us

Madison Iseman and Skyler Gisondo in "Feast of the Seven Fishes." PROVIDED

Every family has their own tradition for the holidays: some sentimental, some habitual and others a bit, well, chaotic. What those traditions have in common is the sentimental value that people hold so closely during this time of the year. That exact sentiment is what you'll find with Robert Tinnell's latest film "Feast of the Seven Fishes," based on his graphic novel and cookbook of the same name. Tinnell drew from his family life to construct the story following the loveable Tony (Skyler Gisondo) and his eccentrically charming family who are preparing to celebrate their intense Christmas Eve tradition when he meets the sweet and a bit misunderstood Beth (Madison Iseman). Through just one night, Beth and Tony form a bond that helps both of their hearts while also causing a few frenzied, yet relatable problems. The film truly is a piping hot serving of holiday magic, and Madison Iseman sat down with Metro to chat about her role, the story and what she hopes audiences take away from "Feast of the Seven Fishes."

Have you ever been involved with a Feast of the Seven Fishes before the film?
Actually, I had never even heard of the Feast of the Seven Fishes, but it was exciting because when we filmed we were right in the middle of West Virginia during the holidays and we were very much immersed in the culture and got to experience it firsthand. Especially with Robert Tinnell and his family, they just invited us right in with open arms. My family doesn't really celebrate in that way, we do our own traditions on Christmas and Christmas Eve but nowhere near as extensive as the Feast of the Seven Fishes. It was really exciting to see.

I know Robert Tinnell also wrote the story as a graphic novel and cookbook. Before filming did you end up reading the novel?
Yes, we actually all got a copy of the book which was really cool. Some of the graphics were really closely related to the rest of the cast which was interesting.

How was it working with Robert Tinnell as a director and the rest of the cast on the film?
It was really just such a fun experience. We were very much right in the center of everything in Robert's great-grandmother's home where he spent all of his Christmases before. That made it extra special, especially with his family so involved, they did most of the cooking that was in the film as well. I really don't like seafood, so it was a little difficult to eat the actual seafood, but honestly, they are all amazing cooks and it really was just like one massive party the whole time we were filming. Then just with the cast alone, Paul [Ben-Victor], Skyler, Josh [Helman] – everyone was down to have fun and it just felt easy to work with the rest of the cast. But we were all together in that tiny house while it was snowing around the holidays, so it felt like one big family reunion on-screen and off-screen even though we didn't all really know each other.

Why do you think your character, Beth was so drawn into Tony's family and spending the holidays with them without really knowing them?
Beth is this girl that no one really has heard of because she spent most of her time away at private school and was away for the summers. She has kind of always had her life laid out in front of her. I think because of that she's always been very curious about the rest of the world, and she feels that from Tony too, which is why they connect so well. They both have this intellectual curiosity about other things outside of the normal. So from then, she starts to challenge her family and society on what a young woman is supposed to do and how she's supposed to act. So I think it really is that curiosity that leads her there, and I think she also finds a piece of herself in Tony. I think she's open to diving right in because she's ready to step away from what she's had her entire life.

The movie ends a bit open-ended, but where do you think Beth will go from there?
I actually talked a lot about that with Robert, because the movie does kind of leave it open-ended. I think from there on, whatever relationship Beth and Tony have with each other, they are both going to start following their real paths of what they should be doing. Beth is finally sticking to what she wants to do instead of listening to her parents and society. Whatever happens, I think they needed each other to find where they are supposed to be. So it could be anything in a way.

Overall, what do you hope audiences take away from the film?
I hope it puts everyone in the Christmas spirit. It's a love story, it's a family story and it's a story about finding who you are, but I think more than anything it's also a holiday movie. It will put you in the mood for that warm fuzzy feeling that everyone gets around Christmas.

Allah-Las find inspiration in the record crates

We spoke with guitarist Miles Michaud about recording, digging and the band's new album, 'LAHS.'

PAT KING

PROVIDED

It was bound to happen. I just didn't know it would happen so quickly. When I got on the phone with Miles Michaud, the guitarist of the garage rock band Allah-Las, he was at home in Los Angeles sorting through some records he had recently purchased. For any fan of the band, part of the their music is being able to trace down the influences they are pulling from. They can jump from surf-rock, psychedelia, folk and rock underneath the hood of a single song. Allah-Las are crate diggers down to the bone, and their endless pursuit of new music is an infectious sense of adventure that is transferred to their fans.

"I think there's always an interesting element to discovering something new and something that, maybe, not a lot of people are familiar with and is good. There is a lot of stuff that people may not know that is … not good," says Michaud with a laugh. "Actually, we've been talking a lot about how we're eager to get back out to Europe because there are so many records out there that are way more expensive or not available here. There's a lot of stuff to catch up on that we've discovered or heard of since we've been out there and want to try to find when we get back … record shopping. That's why we do the whole thing!"

The band is currently out on the road supporting their newest record "LAHS", out now on Mexican Summer records. Unlike past records, "LAHS" has a more free-flowing and improvisational feel to it. This feeling can be attributed to the band's time off the road since their last release, 2016's "Calico Review," and moving into a brand new spacious recording and rehearsal space that helped them to spread out and experiment.

"We rented out a space in this building in downtown Los Angeles. It's got a bunch of rehearsal and recording studios in there. It's got one that overlooks the river and the downtown skyline. We've been in there for two years and just started throwing out different licks and ideas," says Michaud. "It was the first time where we didn't really have a strict timeline, which was what we hoped for. The main reason that we got this space was that it was just going to be open and we could take our time making the record. We didn't feel rushed or pressured to get something out. We took our time with it and actually enjoyed the time being home for a bit instead of rushing to get a record out and getting back out on the road."

As the band hits the road, they will be playing some of the biggest venues of their career. It's something that Michaud is surprised by, but can enjoy even with his own suspicions.

"So far it's been good! I imagine that won't always be the case. You've gotta keep your fingers crossed. It's funny, every time we do a big tour like this, even the last one we did in the Midwest, there were no tickets being sold ahead of time. We were like, 'Oh god, this is it. This is the end.' But by the time we got out there, the rooms were full and a lot of people showed up and it was a lot of fun. You get nervous about that sometimes and think maybe this one will be the last one, but so far it's been good to us. We're pretty grateful for that."

Make sure to catch Allah-Las tomorrow at Paradise Rock Club, 967 Commonwealth Ave.

"No actor likes to be pigeonholed" - EMILIA CLARKE

The British actress revealed how difficult it was to deal with her health problems during 'Game of Thrones.'

PATRICIA CARRANZA
letters@metro.us

Emilia Clarke stars in the new movie "Last Christmas," in which she leaves behind the sensual and empowered character of Khaleesi, Mother of Dragons from "Game of Thrones" to play Kate, a confused and aimless young woman. In an interview with Metro, the actress talked about this new role.

In "Last Christmas" we see a young woman looking for opportunities to show off her talent. Did you identify with Kate when you started?
Definitely, yes, because you have to work very hard. Before I could have a real job as an actress I had to prepare myself a lot in drama school and I had six previous jobs in different fields until I finally got a chance. You have to build your dreams, live and enjoy every experience no matter how bad it is. Like everyone else, at first I had fears and insecurities, but if you don't dare, you'll never make it. In that sense I identify very much with Kate because she is not a perfect girl, she is not the typical Hollywood idea about what women should be. She is not always smiling, she is disheveled and not afraid. So I could see myself in this character. She also has this fragile and sensitive side.

"Last Christmas" shows another facet of you – singing. Would you like to participate in a musical? And what kind of music do you prefer?
I love to sing and I always have. My father worked for many years as an audio engineer in musicals, so I grew up between stages and therefore also participated in many of them. When it comes to music, when I was younger I loved jazz and then ska but now I listen to different genres, so it is difficult to say.

Emilia Clarke as Kate in "Last Christmas," directed by Paul Feig.
UNIVERSAL PICTURES

Do you want to break the image of your character in "Game of Thrones" with this film?
I'm not really looking for that. I mean Khaleesi is a very important part of my life and I know it will be very difficult to overcome. But she is not me and we don't have anything in common, she's a very sensual character and I'm not. I'm aware that nothing I've done before has been as massive as "Game of Thrones," but I also think that no actor likes to be pigeonholed with a character. So, to be honest, in this movie I won't be seen with dragons. My goal is to keep growing in my career, that people continue to generate expectations of my work as an actress and I want to do that every chance I get. This time, "Last Christmas" is for another audience, for new looks, for people who like my work and especially for myself, because otherwise people get bored of you and sarcastically say 'ah look, the same character ... again.'

How did "Game of Thrones" change your life?
My whole world changed, my way of thinking and my way of looking at life. It was one of the projects that allowed me to give a complete turn to my career. But when I thought I was at my best, I got sick so suddenly that I asked myself 'Why? I've worked so hard for this.' And I didn't want to say anything to HBO because it was 2011 and they trusted me, they were the first who didn't criticize me for my appearance and gave me a role as strong as Khaleesi, so I didn't want to disappoint them. But the truth is that I almost died from an aneurysm, which kept me in the hospital for five days. But the best thing is that it didn't discourage me because when you're young you don't know what's going on. That's where Kate and I are very much alike, I feel that's why I managed to connect so much with this character.

Do you put career before your health?
Of course! 100 percent that's the actor's life. When you look around you see a jungle of people looking for an opportunity, then when something like :Game of Thrones" comes into your hands you can't miss it, they are opportunities that come only once in a lifetime. Khaleesi was able to put me to the test many times because three years ago my father died and I also had to recover to continue working. And despite all that nothing would change because it has been a wonderful experience.

New Sex Cream Works Like Magic for Older Men

Recent warnings on sex drugs leads to the creation of an amazing no pill option; key ingredients activate spencial sensation pathways, enhancing erections and triggering arousal

Daniel Watson
Medical News Today

BOSTON – The medical community now has a safer and more effective alternative to sex pills, which they can immediately start offering to male patients. It will not require a prescription.

The alternative, called Sensum+®, is an amazing new sex cream that activates a sensation pathway on the penis known as TRPA1.

When applied as directed, it leads to incredible arousal and much more satisfying erections.

It also promotes powerful climaxes and ultimately results in significant improvements in performance.

"Men can expect outstanding sexual improvements with regular use. The penis will become hyper sensitive, making them easily aroused and excitable" explains Dr. Henry Esber, the Boston based scientist who introduced Sensum+® to market.

"And that's because Sensum+® does what no other sex pill or drug has done before – it stimulates a special sensory pathway right below the skin, which leads to phenomenal sensation."

Overtime, constant exposure (especially if circumcised) leads to decreased penis sensitivity, which can cause problems with arousal and erection quality. There just isn't enough feeling to get excited."

"Diabetes, anti-depressants and normal aging also leads to desensitization, a can make the situation even worse."

"This is what makes Sensum+® so effective and why the clinical studies and clinical use studies have been so positive."

MISDIAGNOSIS LEADS TO UNEEDED PRESCRIPTIONS

After years of clinical research and testing, Dr. Esber and his team have discovered an incredible compound that triggers arousal while helping men achieve erections more easily.

This compound isn't a drug. It's the active ingredient in Sensum+®.

And according to users, it produces sensational results. Many men report remarkable improvements in sexual performance and overall satisfaction.

They are more sexually active than they've been in years with the average Sensum+® user over the age of 50.

Clinical studies show Sensum+®'s key ingredient activates the TRPA1 sensation pathway right below the skin of the penis.

According to research, many men adults and seniors who suffer sexually have lost sensation in their penis due to constant rubbing and exposure and health related issues such as diabetes, hernia surgery, use of some anti-depressants, multiple sclerosis, and other type of illnesses.

This desensitization often makes sex extremely challenging. Without a 100% feeling in the penis, its next to impossible to get truly aroused.

Worse, modern day sex drugs have absolutely no effect on sensation and are laden with side effects. They simply stimulate an erection by enhancing blood flow.

It's why most men are rarely satisfied after taking them and why Sensum+® users are always stocking up on more and couldn't be happier.

"We knew the science behind Sensum+® was there, but we never expected results like we're seeing. It's far exceeded our expectations" said a spokesperson for the company.

A STAGGERING 80% IMPROVEMENT IN SENSATIVITY

Researchers have conducted several clinical studies on Sensum+® and the results from the most recent are undoubtedly the most impressive.

A data analysis of three clinical surveys of 370 men showed that an amazing 80% of Sensum+® users experienced dramatic improvements while using the cream and as a result were aroused easier and a phenomenal boost in performance.

Additionally, 77.4% of men also reported much more satisfying climaxes, making sex for both them and their partners nearly 300% more satisfying.

"I have full feeling and sensitivity back in my penis. Everything feels better. My erections are harder, I'm more easily aroused, I can finally climax again. This stuff honestly works like magic in the bedroom. I couldn't be happier at 66!" raves one Sensum+® user.

HOW SENSUM + ® WORKS

Sensum+® is a new sex cream for men that's to be applied twice a day for the first two weeks then just once every day after.

There are no harmful side effects for either the user or partner. It also does not require a prescription.

The active ingredient is an organic compound known as cinnamaldehyde with a patented combination of sexually rousing extracts.

Research shows that as men get older, they often lose sensitivity to the penis.

Although very subtle, this desensitization can significantly hinder sexual performance and lead to serious problems with becoming aroused and staying/getting hard.

The cinnamaldehyde in Sensum+® is one of the only known ingredients to activate a special sensation pathway on the penis called TRPA1. Once activated, it restores tremendous sensation to the penis, stimulating arousal and powerful erections.

NEW SEX CREAM MAY REPLACE POPULAR SEX PILLS: This new patented clinically proven arousal cream is now available nationwide.

This would explain why so many users are experiencing impressive results so quickly and why the distributors of Sensum+® offer their low cost cream with an amazing guarantee.

GUARANTEE DISCOUNTED SUPPLY TAKES RISK OFF CONSUMERS

A large percentage of men report life changing results with Sensum+®. That's why it is now being sold with an above-industry standard guarantee.

"We can only make this guarantee because we are 100% certain this cream works," says Esber.

"We want to take risk off the consumers. So besides offering massive discounts, we're also offering this guarantee, so they don't have to risk a cent."

Here's how it works: Use the cream exactly as directed and you must feel a significant improvement in sexual sensations. You must be more easily aroused with harder, longer lasting erections and be having the best sex you've had in years.

Otherwise, simply return the empty bottles. Then, the company will refund your money immediately.

HOW TO GET SENSUM + ®

This is the official release of Sensum+®. As such, the company is offering a special discounted supply to any reader who calls within the next 48 hours.

A special hotline number and discounted pricing has been created for all Massachusetts residents. Discounts will be available starting today at 6:00AM and will automatically be applied to all callers.

Your Toll-Free Hotline number is 1-800-353-6553 and will only be open for the next 48 hours. Only a limited discounted supply of Sensum+® is currently available in your region.

Consumers who miss out on our current product inventory will have to wait until more becomes available and that could take weeks. The company advises not to wait. Call 1-800-353-6553 today.

Patriots rip Eagles in Philly

The Pats improved to 9-1 on the season by edging the Eagles.

MATT BURKE
matthew.burke@metro.us

It wasn't the scoring explosion that was witnessed in Super Bowl LII, but the Patriots will take a punt-fest and a win any day of the week.

The Pats got some measure of revenge on the Eagles on Sunday from their championship game loss 20 months ago, beating Philadelphia 17-10 in their backyard.

Tom Brady and the New England offense didn't have much to offer against the Birds, but the Pats defense once again made up for it. The Pats' D sacked Eagles quarterback Carson Wentz five times for a total loss of 40 yards and held him to just a 50 percent completion percentage (20-of-40 for 214 yards and one touchdown).

Brady wasn't much better than Wentz, as he finished having completed 26-of-47 passes for 216 yards.

The Eagles jumped out to a 10-0 lead over the Pats on Sunday, as they converted a field goal in the first quarter and Wentz found Dallas Goedert for a five-yard TD pass in the second.

The Patriots' offense could not manage a touchdown in the first half as kicker Nick Folk had to do the brunt of the legwork. Folk connected on field goals of 35, 22 and 39 yards in the second quarter to keep the Pats in business.

The one good stretch that Brady and the Pats' O had in the game was right after halftime when they began to pick up the pace with quick strikes. Rex Burkhead broke one tackle for a 30-yard gain that set up some textbook Josh McDaniels trickery.

Brady tossed the football toward the sidelines for Julian Edelman, and Edelman then threw a perfect 15-yard touchdown strike to Phillip Dorsett in the end zone to score the only Patriots touchdown of the game.

Coming up big on defense for the Patriots was Lawrence Guy and Danny Shelton, who combined to strip sack Wentz on a key play in the second quarter. That play clearly shifted the momentum in the game toward New England, something they did not relinquish for the remainder of the game.

The Patriots, who are now 9-1 and still own the No. 1 seed in the AFC playoff picture, will face the Cowboys at home next Sunday.

Celtics meet Suns in battle of early surprise teams

VSiN

While it's almost certainly not an NBA championship preview, Monday night's battle between the Celtics and Suns does match two of the hottest straight-up and point spread surprises of the young 2019-20 season.

If the playoffs started today…

*Boston would enter the brackets as the No. 1 seed in the Eastern Conference. Their great early record is not a fluke, backed up by a strong point differential and solid play on both sides of the floor. We've already talked about defensive effort on these pages. The offense consistently finds open shooters, as the roster looks to prove it can win without Kyrie Irving.

*Phoenix would be comfortably in the Western brackets, which is a surprise in itself. Most analysts did expect improvement from recent Suns entries that might as well have been G-League teams. Few anticipated they would be grouped with the likes of the Clippers or Jazz in the mid-November standings. Like Boston, Phoenix's early record is backed up by an impressive point differential.

Bettors backing either surprise are comfortably in the black so far, though the market has been adjusting. Boston landed near the number in recent games vs. Washington and Golden State. Phoenix was a whopping 8-point favorite in its most recent win vs. Atlanta, a point spread few would have imagined before the season started.

The Suns aren't a secret anymore. They'll be going for their tenth point spread cover of the season vs. Boston, against only two failures.

Professional bettors know Celtics/Suns is a tricky handicap. Boston is playing on night two of a back-to-back, but is smart and deep enough to compete for 48 minutes if the fresher Suns get overconfident.

Boston has two games left on its western swing before returning home: Tuesday at the Clippers, Thursday at the Nuggets.

Other Notes

*The Bruins were on the cusp of a statement weekend until the final minute of Saturday night's heartbreaking loss to the Capitals.

Friday, the Bruins ended a four-game losing streak (two beyond regulation) with a 4-2 win in Toronto over the Maple Leafs as an even-money underdog. Saturday, as a short -120 home favorite, they led the Caps 2-1 when the visitors scored in the final minute. Washington would win after the shootout.

Boston's 12-3-5 record still leads the Atlantic Division, but it's 0-4 record in shootouts is worst in the NHL. The Bruins are back on the ice Tuesday at New Jersey, and Thursday vs. Buffalo.

Aries Gravitate toward activities and projects that you enjoy. Make an effort to improve your fitness and diet regimens. Love and romance will enhance your day and a special relationship.

Taurus Take on anyone who stands in your way. Make adjustments to your schedule to avoid missing out on something entertaining. Encourage someone you care about to join your quest.

Gemini Be open and up-front about your feelings and plans. Sticking to the truth will encourage others to support you and follow in your footsteps.

Cancer Don't lose sight of your destination. Share your intentions and persuade others to get involved. Be exact and factual, and avoid taking on too much. Offer less but give more.

Leo Look for a new adventure. Using your skills differently will give you a new outlet to explore. Make physical fitness, moderation and good health your goals. Romance will enhance your life.

Virgo Ask questions if something isn't apparent. Keep a close eye on what others are doing. Take charge rather than let someone else make decisions for you. Say no to temptation.

Libra Make personal improvements. Pampering and relaxation will give you a new lease on life. Say no to anyone trying to persuade you to do something that isn't in your best interest.

Scorpio Don't get involved in someone else's drama. Pursue your dreams. Find the path that encourages you to release what no longer works for you and to embrace what does.

Sagittarius Personal improvements can be made. Look at the budget you have to work with and concentrate on being and doing your best. Put your energy into things you enjoy doing.

Capricorn Don't expect everyone to agree with you. Be prepared to reveal precisely what you are trying to achieve to those who may challenge you. Intelligence will win over bravado.

Aquarius Don't stop until you get the results you are searching for. Be open to suggestions and to discussing your feelings and expectations. Romance is on the rise.

Pisces Don't let confusion set in or interfere with your ability to do the right thing. Make your position clear and don't stop until you reach your destination. EUGENIA LAST

Are you going places?

Or looking for places to go?

Managing your benign prostatic hyperplasia (BPH) alone may not be enough. If you are on BPH therapy and visiting the bathroom frequently, you may have an overactive bladder (OAB).

The immediate need to 'go' interrupts your day and night – and it may not be caused by your BPH.

- Do you have to use the bathroom at least 8 times a day?
- Do you still wake up 2 or more times each night to use the bathroom?
- Do you experience a need to use the bathroom immediately (urinary urgency)?

If these symptoms disrupt your day and night, you may also have a condition called OAB.

A clinical research study is testing the safety and effectiveness of an investigational drug in men on BPH therapy experiencing OAB symptoms. Over 1000 participants in over 135 study centers across North America and Europe are expected to take part in the COURAGE Study.

Spend your days having fun... ...not on the run.

Take control of your life and your bladder.

Overactive Bladder (OAB) with Urinary Incontinence (UI) occurs when you cannot control the muscle contractions of your bladder and urine leaks unexpectedly. It's a condition that can cause extreme inconvenience on your everyday life. The Apollo Study, which is enrolling now, is researching a new investigational drug for OAB.

You May Be Eligible for This Study If You:

- ✔ Are 18 to 75 years old
- ✔ Have had symptoms of OAB with Urinary Incontinence for a period of at least 6 months
- ✔ Had an inadequate response or limiting side effects to previous treatments

Participants will receive study-related care at no cost.
